Hi there, I've had the app tiktok since I was young and I've seen how much it's grown and changed and developed over the years, and its insane how huge its gotten. Over 170,000,000 AMERICANS use the app, that's not i counting any other country like oh my gosh. But I've also seen how basically over the course of five, almost 6 years it's documented my life. I've been able to go back and watch myself grow up into a teenager and its left me speechless. My heart breaks thinking about how today is our last day with this app. And my heart breaks even more knowing that what is essentially my digital diary is just going to disappear in 12 hours. Some may say its just a stupid social media act but no one understanda its platform has helped over 70 million small business flourish aswell has help so many pay the bills and still have some left over and so much more. The tiktok ban was never about our safety from our information being taken or any of that sort, its because it was starting to have to much power. People were realizing that America and the government and supreme court isn't all glitter and sparkles. So its a ploy to have control. I am genuinely devastated about this but I hope someone even if its trumps orange shrmp dicke will pull through and we can AT LEAST get an extension. Anyway, good luck everyone and please download everything that is important to you in this all because it very well could disappear in a matter of hours. I remember downloading tiktok when it was a meme to have it. But I just wanted to check it out. But since 2019, its been hands down the best app Ive ever used. It might sound brandead to even say a sentence like that, but it was legitimately the most fun Ive ever had on an app. I was able to find people I could relate to, post that I found funny, issues that mattered to me along with research and evidence that Id make sure was correct, and overall got content I cared about. Ive changed so much these past 6 years, and some of it is due to tiktok. Ive changed my views because I was able to see the perspective of others. And you know what? I dont think thats dumb to say at all. Its not about being chronically online, thats not at all while Ill miss tiktok. Ill miss it because I was able to connect with so many different people. People whove had different views and experiences. Shared their hobby and their culture. Disagreements could be settled so much easier when you realize these are actual people that youre talking to. TikTok brought the whole world closer to each other. I wont miss the app. Ill miss the people and their creativity. Thank you tiktok for giving us the tools we needed to connect with each other. Especially when covid turned our lives upside down. Maybe one day well all meet again. But for now this is goodbye. At least we enjoyed it while it lasted.
