

Cute things to add to your minecraft world

☐

I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

Continue

Cute things to add to your minecraft world cottagecore. Cute aesthetic things to add to your minecraft world. Cute things to put in your minecraft world. Cool things to put in your minecraft world.

Having trouble finding great Minecraft building ideas? There is no limit when it comes to building in Minecraft. This is of course a great selling point. But imagine that I gave you a stack of dice and complete freedom of creativity. Maybe you're having trouble coming up with fun things to build in Minecraft. Perhaps the term should read: "building block". That's why we at WhatIfGaming decided to put together an extensive list of 80 awesome Minecraft building ideas! In this list, we look at everything from big construction projects to neat little decorations. So there is something for everyone to get their creative juices flowing! Our list is updated every month so check back regularly for new ideas as you can see some of the old Minecraft building ideas at the bottom of the article. Want to see your idea on our list? Leave us a comment under Japanese Pagoda Is Japanese beauty striking? You can get closer to the wonders of the Far East by building a custom Japanese pagoda thanks to SheepGG. It consists of wooden blocks stacked with great symmetry in five floors. In addition, it is supplemented with a roof tip to cover the structure. In addition to the massive, brilliantly designed architecture that is sure to rise to the mighty sky, you can also grow cherry blossom trees to create an East Asian atmosphere in your Minecraft world. Cube House Anyone looking for a modern and stylish Minecraft living space will find a lot to love in this cube house designed by HALNY. This three-cubic block design with high facades and colorful windows is ideal for those looking for an unconventional and elegant home. One of the most amazing details of this design is the hidden passage that connects all three levels - ideal for free access to the space. You can even upgrade things and craftHaving trouble finding some awesome Minecraft building ideas? When it comes to building in Minecraft, the sky's the limit. This is of course a great selling point. But imagine if I gave you a pile of 100 bricks and complete creative freedom. Maybe you're having trouble coming up with cool things to build in Minecraft. Maybe the term should be "block maker". That's why we at WhatIfGaming decided to compile a comprehensive list of 80 awesome Minecraft building ideas! In this list, we'll cover everything from big construction projects to neat little decorations. So there's something for everyone to spark their creativity! Our list is updated monthly so check back regularly for new ideas as you can see some older Minecraft building ideas at the bottom of the article. Want to see your idea on our list? Leave us a comment under Japanese Pagoda Are you attracted to the beauty of Japan? You can experience the wonders of the Far East by building your own Japanese pagoda with SheepGG. It features wooden blocks stacked in layers with amazing symmetry over five floors. In addition, it is finished with a roof covering the structure. In addition to the massive, brilliantly designed architecture that is sure to soar to the skies, you can also grow cherry blossoms to add an East Asian feel to your Minecraft world. Cube House Anyone looking for a modern and stylish Minecraft-style living space will find plenty of charm in this HALNY Cube House. Consisting of three cubic quarters with rising facades and colored windows, this design is perfect for anyone looking for an unconventional and elegant home. One of the most amazing details of this design is the hidden passage that connects all three levels - ideal for providing free access to the space. You can even upgrade things and craftthe fourth (or even fifth) room is parallel to the next one! The extension is not only simple, but also completely simple. Is the House of Nintendo Switch obsessed with the Nintendo Switch? Are you really obsessed? If you practically use your Switch for a few hours a day, you can live in it, right? This Nintendo Switch home lets you literally nest within this replica of the console. The controllers and faceplate are made up of various decorative blocks representing different parts of the switch. The "home" aspect of the Switch is displayed on a screen that is essentially a Trans City hotel. While not a Minecraft mansion, this HALNY hotel is an impressive structure that can easily be used as a home gamert. Consisting of three floors, a hanging sign, and eight front rooms, this design is perfect for gamers who want to feel like they're right in the middle of the city. Numerous decorative elements (such as cornices, warm lighting and brick walls) are reminiscent of very realistic creations. There is also plenty of storage space for all your belongings. Plus, with open windows and a rooftop terrace, you'll have plenty of room to relax and enjoy the views. Sky Base Of course, the subway is a safe place. On the other hand, there are also quite a few dangers here: unexpected lava pools, monsters, not to mention other players' loot. If you're looking for a unique location for your next ultra-secure Minecraft base, this impressive tutorial from Folli is for you. It has a large platform high in the sky that can only be accessed through one waterfall. This means that it will be more difficult for attackers to sneak in uninvited. Plus, he looks great! Nethersword Portal Nethersword Portal is the backbone of every Minecraft world and this Goldrobin Nethersword Portal takes that concept to a whole new level. Featuring a giant Void sword cutting the floor in half, this design is perfect for players looking for a great design with massive proportions.great idea? Where the sword hits the ground, it can turn into cracked sliding ruins, which can serve as a base to store a chest before exploring the Netherlands. I don't know about you, but this design got me excited for my next Dutch mob hunting expedition! Amusement Park Step aside, fans of Rollercoaster Tycoon and Planet Coaster. Minecraft players also have all the resources they need to create their own urban projects in the form of amusement parks. From a fully functional Ferris wheel to various food stalls, there are projects of all shapes and sizes to consider when building a Minecraft amusement park. You also do not need to learn the intricacies of the interaction of redstone and objects on your own. There are plenty of guides online to help you recreate the basics of a Minecraft theme park. You can start simply with food stalls, dart boards, and other similar items. Once you get the hang of it, you can move on to more complex structures like roller coasters! an old glass roof that lets sunlight into your home. It's like being in the game itself! Glass tiles with squid If your passion for squid hasn't left you yet, we have good news! You can build one of the sets in this series based on Shibubaza's glass tile idea for the Squid Game. It not only functionally resembles a game from the Netflix series, but also works exactly the same. And so, what are you waiting for? Grab a pickaxe, build this structure, gather your friends and have many intense moments with this Minecraft building idea. Also, don't forget to check out some PVP tips to make sure W. Mini biomes In real life, there is a group of people who enjoy tending bonsai trees, terrariums, and any kind of miniature versions of natural landscapes. You could say that the Minecraft version of this passion is the passion for creating mini biomes. This activity is ideal for players who want to matchadventures and repeat them at home. For example, if you are in a desert biome, you can go to the field biome and look for unique resources, which will then serve as a decorative mini-biome at home. Because this project doesn't require many resources, you can be as creative as you want and create endless little worlds at home! Greek Temple If you could travel anywhere in the world, where would you go? If you answered Greece, then we have news for you! Designed by Lytecraft, this Greek temple is a faithful recreation of Greek-style buildings like the Parthenon with a more creative and personal touch that will suit the experienced Minecraft player. Perched atop a hill with a pair of marble statues guarding the grounds, this temple is perfect for players who want a stately home to call their own. Minecraft McDonalds There's always something exciting about modern real-life brands that come alive in the world of Minecraft. This contemporary McDonald's restaurant by TSMC does just that, with a bold and iconic McDonald's symbol on the building that reflects architecture that stays true to the fast food chain. While the interior is full of dainty furniture ideas that make this restaurant popular, the outside also has some great quirks, such as parking and a small lawn. Maybe you can consider building an In à Out or KFC next to it to complete it. KFCÀ This HALNY KFC restaurant is one of our favorite Minecraft ideas, instantly recognizable with its red and white background and simple architecture. You can even add some realistic mods to make it even more real. In addition, you have enough space to add your own small details to make everything look authentic. And if you need a quick bite, home ovens can cook fried chicken on request, for exampleHuge Modern Mansion If you're tired of building with mud and logs, this huge mansion from FlyingCow is one of the best Minecraft building ideas to inspire you. With modern, sleek and contemporary themes, this is one of the best Minecraft building ideas you can create. The central part of the house is carved out, making it the perfect contender for the idea of multi-family living. Inside there are six main rooms: a living room, a kitchen, a bedroom, a library, a living room and a roof terrace. The beautiful and well maintained garden also provides a soothing view of nature. Starbucks Cafe If you're looking for inspiration to create a Minecraft city-themed world, this Starbucks building by HALNY might be what you're looking for. With its iconic coffee color palette and distinctive reddish-brown bricks, this replica cafe is easily recognizable by anyone familiar with the chain. And if you're indecisive like me, you can also choose where to eat: inside to admire the beautiful interior design, or outside under the awnings and umbrellas that surround the perimeter. Underwater Housing Complex If you've read our list of the top 10 minecraft base designs, you know we're fans of underwater bases. But you can go much further with its underwater design. If you're looking for a complex building project, then one of the best places to start is SheepGG's guide to building a large base complex attached to the ocean floor. It has massive, oversized glass windows, a beautiful angular design, and plenty of room for all the modern equipment. A brand new underwater home might be just what you need to breathe life into your survival world. If you love building underwater bases, check out our top 15 underwater base ideas for inspiration. You need to light up your home. Why? Because otherwise it will be full of monsters. Good view. But that doesn't mean you're limited to that.and shine. In fact, lighting options have increased exponentially in recent updates, as evidenced by this awesome Minecraft ceiling lighting tutorial with MCram. If you want to learn more about all your options when it comes to Minecraft lighting, check out our guide to the best Minecraft lights to use anywhere? Finally, your lighting will look infinitely better with Optifine mode. Here's our guide to installing Optifine in Minecraft 2021. Axolotl Aquarium If you like to collect creatures and bring them home in Minecraft, One Shot's Axolotl Aquarium has you covered. With a spacious and well-designed interior, you have everything you need to accommodate these adorable animals. But it doesn't have to be axolotls. With the right Minecraft mods, you can create a habitat for almost any creature ever modded in the game. So take your pick! Food Truck Minecraft building ideas that are all about food are sure to attract the hungry. But if you really want to stand out, a food truck is one of the cool things to build in Minecraft. This HALNYALNY food truck has an amazing combination of striped textures, cute design and cozy interior that can tempt hungry passers-by to queue for food. The best thing about this setup is the ability to drop the truck anywhere in the world. In the middle of the jungle? Of course. In Jurmala? Absolutely possible! Minecraft gas station Building a modern city? To fill up these luxury cars, you will need a gas station similar to HALNY's design. This gas station provides an aesthetic stop for your Minecraft city. To get started, you'll need end bars, bricks, and stone bricks. Everything arranged exactly as in the HALNY instructions. The black and white checkered floor will also suit the interior of the building. Although you can choose any floor design as you wish. Your city, your rules. Mountain House Mining is the name of the gameSo much so that players decide to live in the exact places where they mined. This simple cabin by SheepGG is built into the side of a mountain. With a round wooden door and a hybrid interior on the second floor, this Minecraft building idea looks unconventional but definitely unique. The window that lets in natural light and allows you to capture the beautiful landscape from inside the house stands out. Wooden Castle The world of Minecraft is teeming with peasants and monsters - and your job is to keep order in a land without rulers. Do you want this job? This wooden castle can be your trusted base with a design that offers a distinctive and medieval charm. With a siege moat for PVP servers, a high wall for maximum security and lower level is also decorated with plant bushes for a minimalist look. Even in this version, every room looks identical, but no one forbids you to take it apart and create your own creations. All in all, this apartment building is the perfect modern home base for you and your gang. Clothing Store This HALNY clothing store is one of the best things we can build in Minecraft. With modern wallpaper, a simple checkerboard floor and a wooden base, this simple Minecraft building has everything you need to look good. Additionally, this building can be used both as a building and as a place to display and store your armor collection. So if you're always wanted to show off your complete armor collection to your friends, now's the perfect opportunity. Don't miss your chance ⚡Since block gravity is virtually non-existent in Minecraft, you have amazing creative freedom to create wacky designs. For example, this Hanging House design by One Team is one such Minecraft construction. Hanging from an overhanging portion of the mountain face, this house looks like a Minecraft tree house on steroids. It's pretty handy too, with a fully-functional wheat farm that you can customize to your liking. Cherry There is undeniably something magical and calming about cherry blossoms. Not only do they look stunning, their rarity also makes them quite elusive. Unfortunately, we don't always have the pleasure of rubbing shoulders near Cherry Blossom Grove. But that shouldn't stop you from enjoying the beauty of these gorgeous rose trees! With a little planning and effort, you can create your own cherry from scratch. If you need help visualizing your project, you can watch Cortezern's video, who made a spectacular video on how to build a Japanese garden with a cherry blossom top. Japanese tower pagodas in Minecraft can be just as visually stunning as they are in real life. This Japanese tower from One Team has a beautifully crafted design with an intricate roof. Due to its enormous height, this structure can also be used as a vantage point for your base, thanks to the many levels and lamps in each corner. Add some cherry trees as a decoration idea and you have a real eye-catcher! Undersea Base Idea Some people build huge concrete buildings, others build creaky wooden houses. The best of us build bases dozens of feet underwater. If it's your first time, building things underwater can feel almost alien to you. But IrieGenie's Ultimate Underwater Base video tutorial gives a glimpse of how to build a base deep under the ocean floor. It all makes it look super epic, even with floral accentsBridge over a River Is your city divided by a river or a lake? Unless you're restoring the canals of Venice or something like that, you need a bridge. Kelpie The Fox's Fairy Tale Cottage Core River Bridge offers an aesthetically pleasing solution to all your water concerns. Not only is it functional, but it looks grand and cute with its dazzling display of hanging lanterns, several pots and plants along the bridge, and a roof to shade you from the sun. Cute Cafe This cute HALNY Cafe is an incredibly small Minecraft theme, there's no denying that. But don't let its size fool you - it takes a lot of creativity to make a small design work well in Minecraft. What about our thoughts? This steals the show with its minimalist and compact design. Set on an 11 x 6 grid, this cafe manages to fit a roasting area, some seating and even some floral arrangements outside. All without appearing too overloaded! Huge Windmills If you've built a base on farmland, your home structure inherently requires a stunning windmill to outshine everyone. This detailed guide to WalkTheWaffle will walk you through each step of the process. From living spaces to hanging elements that create the illusion of spinning windmills, the detail and scale make this building one of the most striking structures I have ever seen. This should be attempted when resuming the game later. It's also MASSIVE. If you're looking for something similar, but a little more subtle, this guide from Aklia Gaming may help. Aquarium (with real fish!) In my opinion, Minecraft is way better because Mojang decided to fill the oceans with countless species of fish. From the colorful to the mundane, most gamers will never get a good chance of seeing their new aquatic friends. Wouldn't it be nice to have an aquarium full of fish in the player's house? This is exactly what VexelVille wants to achieve with the Easy Modern Aquarium Tutorial. Filled with natureDecoration, it can be built even in survival mode! Contemporary Villa Sometimes all we need is a large property where we can enjoy the summer view of the outside world. And that's perfectly fine - who doesn't want to see a sun-drenched view from their bedroom? This modern villa by Aklia Gaming is a contemporary home with stunning architecture. From the garden on the second floor with bamboo rising high into the air, to the open window in the center of the house, this magnificent building is truly one of a kind. Underwater Home If you hate zombies, skeletons and creepers invading your home, why not consider building your own underwater home? This modern underwater home from ZayPixel is a three-part living space completely submerged underwater! Are you worried about running out of air in your home? Do not worry. ZayPixel's video tutorial will show you everything you need to know to build this residential project from start to finish. Haunted Mansion Want to scare your friends? Consider recreating a haunted house in Minecraft and scare them as they explore the abandoned and scary halls. This ancient mansion is almost entirely made of wood blocks, giving it an old and worn look. Various decorative elements, such as cobwebs and a sweater lantern head on the facade of the building, only add to this ghostly building. This means that you can always make your own contribution and use Cob A Bona Fide Minecraft Castle. If you've ever built a massive wood and stone house, you've probably imagined what it's like to live in a real Minecraft castle. Dream no more! Why not build your own elaborate Minecraft castle? With a throne room, chests, armory, and dungeons, it will be the perfect addition to any Minecraft village world in the later stages of the game. In several parts, BlueNerd Minecraft offers a detailed guide explaining every step of the castle building process. ANDMast and medieval flag Have you ever wanted to show patriotism in the world of Minecraft? Find out more about this design in EB Productions' flagship Minecraft 3D review! This is a relatively simple design, but it will make a great addition to any wooden structure you put together. Treehouse in Minecraft Many people have tried to build a treehouse in Minecraft. Don't get me wrong, some of them are pretty good. But the biggest problem is almost always the same: the tree is too small. This is part of what makes Typface's Minecraft Treehouse tutorial so impressive. They don't just build a lethal ground base with an observation station and all the necessary amenities. They also make the ideal tree large enough to support the foundation of the house. Cat tree If you have cats at home, you know that they love to climb. The same goes for Minecraft, where your pet cats will make good use of whatever structure you give them. If you're looking for a special structure for your cats, IceFire Gaming's survival-oriented training house tree is big and looks great. Give it a try and let us know how your cats find it in the comments! Modernist Masterpiece Don't worry if you build blocks of wood and stone to make a living. I can't lie, I often do the same. Looking for some creative new Minecraft building ideas to help you get through the night? Check out this JUNS MAB tutorial that shows how a real architect can design a modern residential complex. The result is a modernist masterpiece that you may have seen in the most beautiful places in the city. Minecart System If you're looking for something challenging, super fun to build, and incredibly useful, check out Cubeey's fully automated guide to the Minecart transport system. Using the basic launch system, players can launch minecarts anywhere in their world. He can carry either crates of items, making them extremely useful for transporting construction materials from storage to construction sites. Maybe redstone wiring can be a bit tricky, but the investment of time is definitely worth it in the long run. The building on the property is overused and overvalued. Instead, create a floating island inspired by SlowPayz! According to the video creator, to build it you need to find a suitable place, place a block and build 7 blocks high, put a cross on the second layer of the block and then cascade it until you reach the top like an inverted pyramid. This will be the basis of the proposal. From now on, your island can hold anything that fits. I personally would like sakura there. Modern Skyscraper Let's face it, we've all thought about building a skyscraper at some point. But think about how many of us actually went ahead and made it? If you're looking for a stylish design copy, this contemporary skyscraper from HexRegulus is a majestic wonder of white concrete with swirling clear safety glass on the outside. Build this skyscraper in the city or as a freestanding skyscraper - you're sure to turn heads with this sky-piercing building idea. Nether Portal Design If you want to get the best items in the game (or beat the game), you'll eventually need a Nether Portal. Problem: It can look terrible. That's why you should start thinking about a unique nether portal design. One of my favorites is Random Steve Guy on YouTube. It's pretty simple, built with just stone, wood and a few decorations, but it's a nice way to incorporate the portal into your main design rather than an unsightly novelty. Frog Water Fountain Houses is what you need in every Minecraft world you play. But the fun doesn't stop when you have furniture, four walls and a roof. Some key elements of a great Minecraft with what ornaments do you surround it? YouTube BitGarden has a really interesting take on a hookah kit: an awesome-looking stone frog that fits in any pond or lake house you build. Using redstone magic and several daylight sensors, this fountain frog can be activated and deactivated depending on the daylight cycle. This provides a dynamic sculpture with little effort that also looks unique. It would look amazing if you have one of the best Anime Minecraft texture packs! Square Sculpture If you're not into frogs (what's wrong with you?) but still interested in something like a water fountain, why not build your own? This awesome tutorial from YouTubeR Phelps gives you quick instructions for making three custom fountains. But in my opinion, the best Minecraft Steve is bland, posing on one knee and carrying the weight of the world like Atlas. With a few small modifications, you can replicate your own Minecraft skin. Or you can keep it vague enough to maintain plausible deniability. It's not arrogance, it's self-respect, and that's hard to come by these days. Traditional Village Fountain If you're tired of constantly refilling a 2x2 ditch with a bucket of water on each side, why not check out Michael Heist's guide to building a stunning decorative fountain? It's a very simple design, but one that will look great in any home or meadow. Best of all, it shows you some easy ways to mix it up and give it a unique look without having to invest a lot in materials. Covered Swamp Bridge You can't get wet in Minecraft, so we're no strangers to wading through swampy bodies of water rather than going around them. But what if I told you there was a way to cross short stretches of water that was easy and looked amazing? Check out this tutorial from Typface that shows us how to build surprisingly easilyBridge. It's made of wood, cobblestone, and some kind of clever flooring to almost look like it needs special textures. The Dutch update has drastically changed the underworld. The biggest change was that it's no longer a place where you go for five minutes and then go again. Now the Netherlands is an attractive place to spend a lot of time in the game. So it only makes sense that some players have decided to set up a huge permanent base in the Netherlands. It's equipped with everything you'd expect from its Overworld counterpart, along with a few extra defenses to deal with the horrors of the underworld. One of my favorites is GeminiJay's Ultimate Nether Base, which is so impressive that I'd probably prefer to use it as my main base and give up living in the world altogether. What good is there without your own TV? This BlendDigi guide shows you how to create one of 6 unique Minecraft TV themes, each looking amazing, sized and styled to match any base theme. Minecraft Airport (with flying planes) The world of Minecraft is huge, which is why an airport made it to our list of things to build in Minecraft. So it's not surprising that when trying to get from point A to point B, the inhabitants of Minecraft have to get on a plane from time to time. Luckily, you've seen this awesome tutorial by YouTubeR HALNY that shows you how to create a convincing airport with a plane landing in the sky! Whether you're building it into a modern Minecraft city or adapting it for something a little more rustic, this design feature will turn heads the next time you show off your Minecraft world. Minecart Roller Coaster If you've ever played Rollercoaster Tycoon or Thrillville, you know how much fun it is to build your own roller coaster. This may not seem obvious - after all, the physical system of the cart is not complicated enough for loops and rolls, but with a little creativity you can easily create a perfect Minecraft roller coaster that will keep you entertained for hours. This will probably require a lot of redstone and paths. So it may not be a practical design for newly opened survival worlds. But if you want to see the excitement of a simple Minecart song, check out this demo by YouTubeR KudliStyle. However, ship slides don't have the most intuitive physics. Instead, many users have chosen to build something like a water slide, a roller coaster that uses boats instead of mine carts. Ships can bounce, jump, climb, speed up and slow down with ease, making them the perfect tool for builders creative enough to push their limits. For a great water slide with jumps, lifts and ramps to inspire your next Minecraft build idea, check out this tutorial by Youtuber Swifters287. Street lighting When decorating something like a village or small town, you need to take care of outdoor lighting. Fortunately, Redstone's daylight sensors allow you to create a series of stylish street lamps that automatically turn on when it gets dark. When it comes to stylish street lighting designs, I love this collection of 8 tutorials by Kenneth. Team up with this tutorial to automate them with iDonPower and you'll never have to let your revenge style go dark again! Minecraft Sphinx So far, we've had a lot of great ideas for decorating lawns and forest structures, but very few ideas for other, less traditional biomes. Users who build in the desert often forget the subtler aspects of design and decoration in favor of a more practical farm that has everything you need to get through a rough night. But check out this Minecraft Sphinx tutorial by YouTubeR Magma. Designed with delicate care, especially around the face, you can decorate your Sphinx with gold or otherwiseStones to add more vanity or texture! Mining Camp Mining is one of the most fun parts of playing Minecraft. But I'm not afraid to admit that sometimes it can take a bit of a toll on me. This is especially true in the design of my mines, where stairs are cut into the mountains without warning as standard. That is, until I saw this amazing mountain camp tutorial by Reimi that includes a crafting station, custom lighting, and even a giant crane that sells aesthetics! I usually build in preparation for the later stages of the game. But if I were to plan a mining camp like this for my next Minecraft projects, I'm not sure I'd ever get away with it! Realistic Bathroom Design However, many Minecraft projects don't necessarily involve massive structural layouts. Others may just be new ways of thinking about construction. Check out this amazing realistic bathroom furniture idea from this tutorial by MCram for a great example! Of course, if you don't have a pee module, you don't need a bathroom or a toilet. However, adding one adds a new element to your base. It would even be fun to come up with an original design! A big problem I had when filling my houses in Minecraft was that I often ended up with a lot of empty space and not many great ideas to fill it. Maybe a picket fence table and chairs and a pressure plate. But it would be great if slot machines, slot machines, kitchen furniture and more could be included. Both Part 1 and Part 2 of this series from BlendDigi provide instructions on how to create all of the above. Unfortunately, none of them will work. But they'll still look amazing when you finish building your square man cave. Custom parkrun image courtesy of YouTubeR Alpha Will. Minecraft parkour maps are the backbone of many online servers and challenge maps, but trying to create your own can be a great addition to your creative or survival world. Actually,Maps are platform games in the air where players have to evaluate big and small jumps from block to block. On more complex maps, blocks are replaced with more unusual items with unique hitboxes, such as webs and fences. It requires a lot more skill than just Minecraft, so check out our list of the best Minecraft mice of 2021. If you don't know where to start and want to brush up on the basics of creating an awesome parkour map, check out this tutorial from YouTubeR Ragon Akashi. Obsidian City in the End Minecraft officially has no end. But when you get to defeating the Ender Dragon, you will feel like you have to start thinking about creating a new Minecraft world. But stop! Why would you leave until you've benefited from The End? It's an often neglected place, but an extremely fertile place to create something really impressive, and if you don't know where to start, I have a few ideas. Definitely my favorite is Minecraft City, which is completely built around End Towers. Best of all, the creator of Grain recorded the entire speedrun of his version, so you can watch it too! Play your favorite song with Minecraft Note Blocks Minecraft note blocks have been a staple of the game for as long as I can remember, ever since the first "Minecraft Note Block Cover" videos in 2011. Note. The blocks are mostly made up of redstone, powered devices that play a single note when redstone energy passes through them. Their tone and sound quality may vary depending on which unit they are connected to. This allows users to create extended renditions of any song they can think of. One of the most impressive is Note Block's cover of Rick Astley's Never Gonna Give You Up by YouTubeR Brui. If you're looking for a great starting point for complex science, this series of tutorials from Amosdroll is simple, accessible, and gets you started right away. Mushroom House One of the many things that make Minecraft fun is creativity. Just stand in the indicated place - and the blocked wall in front of you will magically open as a secret passage. Plus, find other great Redstone appliances for your next creative home. The Indestructible Wall Have you ever been chased by an evil raider in PvP? Have they breached your base and left your house in ruins? With this indestructible wall of Mumbo Jumbos, you won't have to worry about them breaking into your home. This will cause the cobblestones to fall back into place, leaving the infiltrator stuck and unable to get inside. Building will require a solid knowledge of Redstone gear, but nothing can't be fixed with a little patience and dedication. Volcanoes in Minecraft do not appear naturally because lava tends to accumulate around layers of rock below the surface. But who is stopping players from starting their own? Built by Shannooty, this massive volcano is ready to surpass all expectations. I'm serious, look at the size of this thing! From a huge barren island that forms the base of a volcano to a jagged rock formation that juts into the sky, this hundred-hour project is the one Minecraft idea to rule them all. Torii Gate If you feel sleepy at the thought of building multiple buildings, creating a nice walkway design can be a nice change of pace.The Torii Path design by ZayPixel is a true depiction of the Torii gates scattered throughout Japan. In addition to the iconic gate, there are also glowing stone lanterns that illuminate the area as you pass by. This design is well suited for a zen park or an Asian style country village. Skull Banners If you're in PVE or playing against multiple factions, it's important to mark your territory and mark your boundaries. This BlendDigi Minecraft skull banner design can be a threatening way to keep unwanted visitors away from your property. If it hangs from your roof, it's like saying, "If you get even closer, you're D-E-A-D!" Whether your character has heavy duty armor or just raw iron armor to save their skin, anyone can do it. feel the fear coming from skull banner design. House underground Instead of building your base higher and higher, why not consider building it low below the ground? This underground Spudetti house has a round base divided into four parts. Each section represents a room - a dining room, a bedroom, a library, and so on. While it may seem counterintuitive that the base is so low to the ground, you have to admit it looks impressive. In addition, you can always add floors to it, such as a spire or a coliseum. I made my own item (created my own mod) Okay hear me out here. Mod coding, especially if you're not very tech savvy, can seem like an incredibly daunting task. But as this fantastic costumed llama tutorial shows, it doesn't have to be that hard. By starting small, you can get your very own in-game item in just a few hours and with very basic knowledge of Java. For most of us, this will be a far-reaching task, but if you are looking for new ways to create Minecraft, coding add-ons will raise the ceiling of the entire game. Get lost in the world of pixel art if you're not familiarPixel art, the concept is pretty simple. Users are immersed in a flat creative world, entering a beam of color waves and building massive 2D structures that look like sprites or cartoon characters from a distance. There are classics like JbrosGaming's Big Chungus and this year's Christmas Baby Yoda from RocketZero. But in recent years, users have gone even further. Using every block in the game to create truly complex models that look like detailed (albeit pixelated) images from a distance. To get started, select an image and go to minecraftert.netlify.app. Here you can upload any image you like and get a detailed diagram of how to recreate it in Minecraft blocks. The Perfect Minecraft Igloo It's not just desert biomes that players usually avoid like the plague. My portion of survival worlds is destined to appear in the endless tundra, where giving up and creating a new world with a different seed is usually the best alternative to snow slavery. But this igloo survival guide from YouTubeR Mr. The mirror is stupid. It looks great using resources only available in the tundra biome. Equipped with outdoor seating and a fire pit, this is your golden bullet that will never escape the snow again. Underground Survival Bunker At this point, using hard survival mode is a bit silly, but it can be a problem. Add more nimble players competing for valuable resources. The need for safe living, crafting and protection doubled. This Spudetti sample lesson shows how great a fully equipped survival bunker can be. With more storage than you'll ever need, it's the perfect base from start to finish. Best of all, it is completely hidden from view. Create your first adventure map image on JBurnetto. I don't know about you, but I remember a time when adventure maps were huge. They can be anythingCurses range from parkour to detective simulations and cover everything from complex redstone programming to programmed command blocks. The process of creating an adventure map includes creating custom skins, writing dialogue, inventing stories, and creating expansive spaces in which your story can take place. Certainly an unconventional idea for a Minecraft build, but I'm sure many players have never thought about it. Last but not least, why not play one of the most popular adventure maps first? From challenges to puzzles and Minecraft RPGs, you can find it all at mincraftmaps.com. Nether Portal Entrance Gateway to Narnia? No, this is a fabulous entrance to the portal of the Nether from the fox Kelpie! This Fairy Tale Nether design is a relatively simple structure that only requires wood material and resources to produce Nether. But don't let its simplicity fool you. Creating this theme will help against the monsters that randomly appear in your world or in the underworld. Underwater House 2 There is no doubt that Minecraft players are some of the most creative people in the world. Again, thanks to the occasional Steve Gay, they create an impressive underwater home that creates a beautiful and aquatic home. Unlike the other building ideas on this list, this building idea has rooms that rise above the water. You can watch the sunset from one floor. On another floor, in your pantry, you can watch the fish swim through the corals. I would say it's flawless! Covered Bridges Bridges are a must in Minecraft, and it's always best to have a nicely designed bridge structure with randomly scattered blocks of earth. This covered bridge from Typface features an impressively simple yet effective design that works well in more rustic tree-like villages. In addition to lamps and the typical wooden base, it also includes some strings to make it look like some kind of drawbridge in a castle. Bonus Building Ideas List Our list is updated regularly so we're always adding new ideaswhen you delete the old ones, this little list on the next page is the ones that just kept but weren't deleted. Page 2 Lighthouse Idea The ocean can be a scary place for a Minecraft player. Fortunately, beacons guide distant ships to safety with their bright and shining light. The overgrown Medi Lighthouse in Minecraft is one of those Minecraft building ideas that is excellent in both form and function. In addition to its compact and tall design, its light source emits a transparent pale yellow light over the structure. This is more than enough to control ships and boats even on the darkest nights. Modern Loft House This modern loft house by INTUBE is a beautiful interpretation of a luxurious modern mansion. When you come to the end of the hedge path, a stately and majestic staircase awaits you. Inside the house, you can see a combination of modern and minimalist elements, creating a wonderful atmosphere that exudes luxury and splendor. And if indoors isn't for you, the infinity pool with outdoor sunbathing area will give you a break, perfect for watching sunsets and sunrises. Waterfall House Imagine that you are walking out of your house and you hear a gentle stream of water flowing from both sides. Relaxing, right? Waterfall House by SheepGG offers a unique approach to water play to decorate your living space. In addition to the "Leather Wood Log" design, which is a nice contrast, the mini garden looks just as great, highlighting the structure with a natural glossy look. Of course, the lanterns behind the water also add a mystical and enchanting presence. Minecraft Rug Templates It's always tempting to fill your Minecraft home with a colorful rug. But, unfortunately, there are serious problems with it. First, and probably most important, is that it doesn't look great. At least mine looked awful for a long time. But then I picked up this episode of Build Hacks from YouTubeR ReytGood. Video seento create 6 unique carpet designs. They can not only breathe new life into your design. They can also make your spaces appear larger if you felt cramped during construction. Cliff House Design Watching the sunrise or sunset can be a great way to cool off and relieve stress after a long day. Do you own a home where you can live this reality while looking out the window or stepping onto the balcony? Even better. This hanging cliff house by Random Steve Guy lets you see the skyline from above. The required materials are not that rare and can be found all over the world, namely boards, glass plates and wood. Of course also the mountain wall. Your First Home in the Wild Many players like to build their survival homes in grassy biomes, forests, and even swamps and rocks. But Minecraft players are known to avoid building their bases in deserts. The reason is simple. It's much harder to make your home look good when it's yellow and surrounded by yellow. There is no optical difference between sand, sandstone and sandstone. But check out this awesome desert house idea from YouTubeR Julious. It offers the aspects you would expect from a quality grassland build, but tailored for the vast deserts of Minecraft. Try it out and let us know how you do. Okay... maybe it's just me, but I love building huge walls around my Minecraft bases. Turning a secluded little cottage with a few surrounding buildings into an actual medieval fortress is absolutely hilarious. But by far my favorite part is the huge wall that was supposed to surround it. Especially when you use all sorts of materials and embellishments to make it truly unique. If you want to join too - and let's be honest, why not? Check out this huge tutorial from Mysticat featuring five awesome and innovative wall designs. You can build more than just castle walls, check out our listbest minecraft walls for any occasion i can remember when mojang first introduced generated villages with villagers. What always surprised me the most was how well they seemed to fit together. They didn't appear to be just a series of prefabricated structures. These villages had depth and personality. There are many great ways to decorate your base structures to turn them into something more aesthetically pleasing, but I love these Minecraft tutorials from BBlocks and BlueNerd. From gazebos to benches to flower beds, there's everything you need to grit your teeth and spend the day decorating your base! They may seem simple, but these are some great Minecraft building ideas. Friends, nothing will hurt you more than the death of your first dog in Minecraft. Along with you in grief and sorrow, your furry friend will love, protect and fight for you. So you can offer your dog the best possible accommodation. This outdoor nursery tutorial by Android Yohie is one of my favorites. If you're looking for something a little more modern, here's an alternative guide to TSMC's Doghouse - Minecraft Greenhouse might seem silly considering Minecraft can grow pretty much anything outdoors. But think about it: it's a fantasy world and you can do whatever you want. Would you like to build a greenhouse in the middle of the forest? Be my guest. This BlueNerd Minecraft greenhouse design is made from simple materials like quartz blocks, wooden stairs and fences. Of course, a bouquet of plants and flowers also contributes to the organic feeling. There are already some great decorating features on this list, as well as a bunch of new ones on the way. But only some of them have not only a functional, but also a decorative function. This isn't the case with Magma's Minecraft Playground tutorial, which is one of the coolest things I've seen in Minecraft. To climb on a tree. A climbing frame, sandpit, and slide are great additions to any Minecraft village or community. This is one of my favorite Minecraft building ideas on this list. If you are planning to build a castle town or other village, you should consider a place where the villagers can practice their devotion to the faith. This medieval church from BlueNerd Minecraft is the perfect building for that! You can turn it into a festive place, meeting place or even a haunted castle at night. The components for its construction are not too complicated - just a few paving stones, wooden steps and some plants to brighten up the garden. Have you ever been playing an open world video game and come across a waterfall and just noticed that there is a secret cave behind it? more. This waterfall mod by Random Steve Guy celebrates players finding hidden caves and crevices behind nondescript places. Having your home behind a secret passageway adds a layer of mystery and exclusivity that feels inviting. Many of the craziest ideas so far have been huge Minecraft houses. But what if you want to build the smallest Minecraft house possible? A good place to start would be this fantastic guide to stylish, minimalist home design by Random Steve Guy, which packs a truly staggering amount of gear into such a small package. However, one might even argue that it is too big. I have seen smaller houses but that spoils the fun. How small can you make your minecraft house? Let us know in the comments! The starter house tends to be some kind of landscape nuisance that you'll probably destroy as soon as possible. However, here's a unique idea that you'll want to keep long after you've upgraded. This simple shed tutorial from YouTubeR Nexty is a compact, rustic, and surprisingly smart security option.Avoid mobs and get the upper hand over all PvP invaders, you can't do better. If you're building a survival base for beginners, you can make good use of the Minecraft duplication glitch, which is still active in 2021! 80 of the best Minecraft building ideas, so get to work! 80 cool things to build in minecraft the next time you attack with bricks. Here's a crazy selection of Minecraft building ideas. But one important thing to remember is that all other Minecraft projects don't have to be huge. Part of the fun of the game is finding ways to dramatically change the experience, such as B. spawning in an alien biome or trying to thrive in the underworld. If you're still looking for things to build in Minecraft, check out our post TOP 10 Basic Minecraft Ideas. Finally, have you heard of drag-clicking? It's a great new way to gain a competitive edge in combat situations. Here's our comprehensive drag and click guide and our guide to the best drag and click mice of 2021 2021.

