Las Olas Boulevard Fort Lauderdale Florida2021-11-09T12:19:17-05:00 SD «The best places to stay in Fort Lauderdale Updated: 13 November 2021 See also The best areas for Fort Lauderdale Just north of Miami, Fort Lauderdale is known mainly for its fabulous beaches, a long stretch of Atlantic coast consisting mainly of coral reefs, islands separated from the mainland by the intracoastal waterway. The main attractions away from the beach are located in the center of Fort Lauderdale, the commercial and cultural center of the region. While it is relatively easy to explore the city centre and the individual bathing areas on foot, the car is the best way to travel around the region, although at Fort Lauderdale there are also Water Taxis. Greater Fort Lauderdale encompasses all of Broward County in South Florida «We included hotels in the main neighborhoods between Hollywood Beach and Pompano Beach below. «For quieter beaches and a taste of «old Florida», consider Dania Beach or Lauderdale-By-The-Sea « is Downtown Fort Lauderdale the best district for art, culture, restaurants and shopping, but it is easy to reach Fort Lauderdale Beach (which has more accommodation) by bus, Uber, water taxi or car. «Las Olas Boulevard, which runs between the center of Fort Lauderdale and the beach, is the main shopping street of the region. The best places to stay in Fort Lauderdale The Conrad Hotel is the best resort on the beautiful beach of Fort Lauderdale. The best areas of Fort Lauderdale for a beach holiday: Fort Lauderdale Beach For general entertainment, a wide range of accommodation, excellent restaurants and a huge stretch of white sand, it is difficult to beat Fort Lauderdale Beach. Staying here you do not need to have water taxis, Uber and bus to the center of Fort Lauderdale, and up and down the strip. Palms, bars, shops and outdoor restaurants line the promenade and during the day there are patrol baths. Beach chairs (with huge blue umbrellas) are available for rent (from about 45 dollars per day) and parking is relatively easy (on weekdays). Rent jetski (from $95 to 30min), paddleboard and kayak from Dr. Jet Ski. The best neighborhood for food and restaurants: Downtown Fort Lauderdale The best restaurants in the region tend to be in Downtown Fort Lauderdale, especially along Las Olas Boulevard. Our favourite venues include Asian/Latin fusion Casa Sensei, the elegant Rivertail fish restaurant, the elegant Harborwood inside the Hyatt Centric Las Olas, the Indian restaurant Bombay Darbar and the excellent Italian restaurant Primadonna. The recommended Sistrunk Marketplace & Brewery is located just north of Downtown. The best diving and fishing districtPump Beach Thanks to the numerous underwater wrecks just outside Hillsboro Inlet (at least 18), Pompano Beach is known as "the wreck"Florida and a paradise for scuba diving enthusiasts (see South Florida Diving or Drift Free Diving.) Diving along the coral reef is also popular, and several outfits offer fishing charters. Just south, Lauderdale-By-The-Sea is perfect for snorkeling, with a coral reef just a short walk from the beach. Best neighborhood for families: Hollywood Beach Laid-back Hollywood The beach is a great choice for families, with its famous 2.5 mile Broadwalk along the beach crowded with street performers, outdoor cafes, and plenty of activities, from cycling and rollerblading, to kayaking and beach Volleyball. Changing rooms and cabanas are also available for rent, and there is a wide range of accommodation here. Hollywood Beach is located between Miami and Downtown Fort Lauderdale, easily accessible via I-95. Neighborhood for Nightlife: Downtown Fort Lauderdale The largest concentration of bars and live venues is in the Riverwalk area on the west side of downtown Fort Lauderdale, close to Broward's Centre for Performing Arts (not far from Hyatt Centric Las Olas.) Our favorite spots include Apothecary 330, Stache Drinking Den and Original Fat Cats. To the south, the Tarpon Brewing River is our favorite local brewery. The nightlife along the Fort Lauderdale Beach strip isn't as raucous as it used to be, but there are plenty of places here too: Casablanca Cafe, Lulu's Bait Shack, historic Elbo Room, and further north Blue Jean Blues, for live blues and jazz seven nights a week. Best neighborhood for the LGBT+ scene: Wilton Manors Although there are several gay-friendly hotels in Fort Lauderdale Beach, the most active LGBT scene is located in Wilton Manors, a few miles inland. Wilton Drive is the main drag, lined up with LGBT+ friendly businesses, bars and restaurants. The neighborhood is also home to Equality Park's Pride Center, Broward County's LGBT community center, and the annual Stonewall Pride Parade & Street Festival, held every June. Some of the best hotels here include Inn On The Drive, Island Sands Inn and Casa HermA's. Unsafe areas of Fort Lauderdale Central Fort Lauderdale and the beach districts described below are generally quite safe, although usual precautions should be taken at night. Flagler Heights, which is developing in an edgie arts neighborhood just north of downtown Fort Lauderdale, can be dangerous, especially at night; Dorsey Riverbend, just northwest of the Museum of Discovery and Science has a similar sketch reputation. Most high-crime neighborhoods tend to be more inland. The 7 best neighborhoods in Fort Lauderdale for tourists 1. Downtown Fort Lauderdale Two kilometres from the beach, on the banks of the New River, downtown Fort Lauderdale is the commercial and commercial centre of the region, but is also full of tourist attractions. Olas Boulevard is the main shopping and entertainment street of the city, while the Riverwalk makes a pleasant waterfront promenade Broward Center for the Performing Arts, History Fort Lauderdale, Museum of Discovery and Science, NSU Art Museum and the Historic Stranahan House Museum. Thanks to its miles of canals, Fort Lauderdale is known as the "Venice of America", best appreciated by Water Taxis or cruise ships like the Jungle Queen. 2. Fort Lauderdale Beach Las Olas Boulevard is located on Fort Lauderdale Beach Boulevard, which runs north-south along the Atlantic coast. Fort Lauderdale The beach is only two miles but a world away from Downtown, its fine stretch of sand lined with posh resorts, restaurants, bars (the Elbo room has been open since 1938), paddleboard rental, T-shirts and swimwear shops, coconut palms, rollerbladers and cyclists. The main attraction of the rainy day is the International Swimming Hall of Hunger. The Tortuga Music Festival (a beach party country music), and the Riptide Music Festival take place every November on the beach. 3. Port Everglades (Harbordale) Port Everglades is an important seaport, best known for being one of America's largest naval bankers. The harbor is served by the nearby adjacent Harbordale, home to the Greater Fort Lauderdale Convention Center and a plethora of generally inexpensive, no-frills accommodation (with some exceptions listed below). Staying here is mainly to be close to the cruise port and Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport, although there are plenty of good places to eat (including 15th Street Fisheries), and Fort Lauderdale Beach is just a mile and a half away. 4. Lauderdale-By-The-Sea About four miles north of Fort Lauderdale Beach, Lauderdale-By-The-Sea is smaller and more relaxed than its southern neighbor, with a wide range of cheap guesthouses and motel accommodations. It is also a popular spot for snorkeling and scuba divers, with a coral reef and several wrecks just off the coast (including the SS Copenhagen, a British cargo vaporizer that sank in 1900). AQUI Water Sports and Deep Blue Divers offers trips and lessons. The local Anglinás Fishing Pier is the longest in South Florida. Nearby, Caribbean-style Aruba Beach Caf   is one of our favorite places to eat. 5. Pompano Beach Towards the northern end of Broward County (about 10 miles from downtown Fort Lauderdale), Pompano Beach is another relaxed beach community with a range of lodging options and an approximately 900-foot long fishing pier. It is best known for its underwater scene and sport fishing charters, as well as its green market, held from November to April on the second and forward Saturday of each month. The seafood restaurants are also quite good here: one of our favorites is Beach House. 6. Dania Beach Seven miles southeast of downtown Fort Lauderdale (and just south of the airport), Dania Beach is a less crowded strips of sand in the region. Although the beach is narrower here than anywhere else on the coast, it is much less developed and makes a quiet alternative to Fort Lauderdale and North of Dania Beach Pier is the pristine Dr. Von D. Mizell-Eula Johnson State Park, while the community itself is known for its antique shops, especially in the hinterland along US-1. The best place to eat is the Quarterdeck Restaurant right on the pier, although Jaxson  s Ice Cream Parlor, dating back to the 1950s, is recommended as a dessert. Best hotels: Casa Mint "The Desoto" Ocean Inn 7. Hollywood Beach Just over 10 miles southeast of Downtown Fort Lauderdale, Hollywood Beach is a quiet family-friendly beach community, with hotels ranging from luxury resorts to budget motels. As always, the sand is the biggest attraction here, but also the 2.5 mile long and pedestrianized "Broadwalk" along Ocean Drive is a lot of fun, with restaurants, street performers and shops. The restaurant scene is particularly good here, with everything from Billy's Stone Crab, which specializes in seafood, to the no-frills hamburger Le Tub. Beyond the waterfront, the main attraction is the Anne Kolb Nature Center, a pristine park made up of coastal mangrove wetlands. Read more
