Why did Anil forgive Hari Singh? Answer: Anil was a large-hearted man. He knew that Hari Singh was a thief. But he forgave him because he wanted to give him another chance. The Thief's Story Extra Questions and Answers Long Answer Type Question 1. "He was the most trusting person I had ever met,' remarked Hari Singh. Hari Singh took undue advantage of Anil's trust. Do you think trusting a servant blindly, like Anil, is wise or do we need to be careful? Answer: Hari Singh is justified in saying that Anil was the most trusting person he had ever met. But he took undue advantage of his trust. He was a thief and could not be expected to be honest with Anil. Anil had a blind faith in human nature. He employed him just out of sympathy and compassion for him. He trusted him and ignored his misdeed. He handed over all the financial transactions without verification. He was so sympathetic towards Hari Singh that he did not ask him to leave the job when he was unable to cook. He trusted a stranger and gave him every chance to improve. When Hari Singh stole money and came back, Anil knew his act but said nothing. He knew he was guilty but rather gave him a fifty rupee note. I think such a blind faith in a stranger is not prudent, one should be kind but not careless. Question 2. Hari Singh decided to return the stolen money to Anil. It shows that everyone has some inner conscience which they do not put in practice. Do you agree? Was it the awakening of his conscience that made him return the money? Answer: Hari Singh's conscience pricked him. decides to come back to Anil and keep his trust alive. This shows that there is goodness concealed even in the worst of men. Question 5. If you had been Anil, what would have also forgiven Hari Singh. Hari Singh was no doubt a thief, but by coming back and returning the money, he had proved that he wanted to lead a respectable life. He was trying to change his habits. Secondly, even his master was really guilty of inviting his temptation by being careless. Therefore, the question of punishing him did not arise. A man should always be given a chance to improve. That is why there are rehabilitation centres in prisons too. Nobody wants to become a criminal. Everyone is a victim of circumstances. In my opinion if one is given a chance and good environment, one can be transformed. Love, sympathy and right opportunity can transform the thieves too. Everyone wants to lead a life full of respect and dignity. Question 6. Do you think people like Anil and Hari Singh are found only in fiction, or, are there such people in real life? Do you think presence of such people can free the society from day-to-day crime? and win the trust and confidence of their employers. Then they rob them of their wealth and leave cities one after the other. In the same way, people like Anil who have a positive approach to life, there will be less crime in our society. He transformed a thief by his love, sympathy and compassion for him. If he had handed him over to the police, Hari Singh would have become a hardcore criminal and a threat to society. Question 7. Do you think it a significant detail in the story that Anil is a struggling writer? Does this explain his behaviour in any way? Answer: Anil is a struggling writer?
writer; therefore, he is not getting regular work. He writes articles for magazines now and then to be able to earn his living. He believed in 'today' without bothering for 'tomorrow'. His compassionate nature made him believe even the strangers. He became tool in transforming a thief into a useful member of the society. That makes him have trust in others, as he does not have much to lose. He also understands the problems of other people, who are not earning well. Question 8. Have you met anyone like Hari Singh? Can you think and imagine the circumstances that can turn a fifteen year old boy into a thief? Answer: I have never met anyone like Hari Singh. It is the miserable circumstances which compel a fifteen year old boy to be a thief. When either the parents are dead or are not in a position to take a good care of their children, they steal things and sell. In the beginning, these innocent children request people to help them, but when nobody helps them, they start stealing as a revenge from their own parents and society. Empathy and trust can help them in changing their lives. Question 9. Give a brief character sketch of Anil highlighting his qualities. Answer: Anil was a writer and wrote books as well as contributed to magazines. His income was not regular. He did not give any importance to materialism. He was an extravagant man, who would spend money lavishly on his friends. He was sympathetic towards Hari Singh and did not throw him out of his house, when he could not cook well. He trusted a stranger and gave him the keys. He finally became a saint by giving Hari Singh a chance to improve. He did not say anything to Hari Singh on knowing about his guilt, rather gave him a fifty rupee note with a promise to give him regularly. Dr. B. R.  Hari to stop stealing and live an honest life. He might have kept learning from Anil, getting better at reading and writing. Maybe he even went back to school. With his new skills, Hari might have wanted to help others too. He could have taught kids who Singh, and what would he have said? Answer in around 120 wordsAnswer: If Anil found out about the theft, he would talk to Hari Singh calmly and politely. He might say he was sad, not because of the money, but because he felt cheated. Anil would ask Hari why he did it and really listen to his answer. Anil is kind and would tell Hari that making mistakes is normal. The important thing is to learn from them and try not to make them again. If Anil gave Hari another chance, it would show him that Anil really cares about him and his future. Anil's kindness could help Hari choose to live better from now on.3 Question: Why do you think Hari Singh wanted to learn cooking even though he was not good at it at first? How do you think trying to cook helped him feel more confident and willing to try other new things? Answer in around 120 wordsAnswer: Hari Singh wanted to show Anil, and maybe himself, that he could do good things. Even though he failed at cooking the first time, Anil was patient and supportive. This helped Hari keep trying. He learned that making mistakes is normal when you're learning something new, and it's important to keep going. As Hari got better at cooking, he also started feeling more confident. This made him want to try other new things too. Growing more confident was a big change for Hari. It helped him see himself in a new way. He found out that learning new skills can be fun and make you feel good. Anil's kind and gentle help was very important in Hari's effort to get better and realise what he could do.4. Question: Think about how Anil taught Hari Singh. How did Anil's way of teaching help Hari learn better?

 helped at places where they teach people for free. Hari's life changed from being a thief to helping others. This shows how kindness and learning can really change someone's life and give them a new start. Question: Imagine Anil found out about the theft the next morning. How do you think he would have confronted Hari Singh, and what would he have said? Answer in around 120 wordsAnswer: If Anil found out about the theft, he would talk to Hari Singh calmly and politely. He might say he was sad, not because of the money, but because he felt cheated. Anil would ask Hari why he did it and really listen to his answer. Anil is kind and would tell Hari that making mistakes is normal. The important thing is to learn from them and try not to make them again. If Anil gave Hari another chance, it would show he believes Hari can change. This talk would be very important for Hari. It would show him that Anil really cares about him and his future. Anil's kindness could help Hari choose to live better from now on.3. Question: Why do you think Hari Singh wanted to learn cooking even though he was not good at it at first? How do you think trying to cook helped him feel more confident and willing to try other new things? Answer in around 120 wordsAnswer: Hari Singh wanted to show Anil, and maybe himself, that he could do good things. Even though he failed at cooking the first time, Anil was patient and supportive. This helped Hari keep trying. He learned that making mistakes is normal when you're learning something new, and it's important to keep going. As Hari got better at cooking, he also started feeling more confident. This made him want to try other new things too. Growing more confident was a big change for Hari. It helped him see himself in a new way. He found out that learning new skills can be fun and make you feel good. Anil's kind and gentle help was very important in Hari's effort to get better and realise what he could do.4. Question: Think about how Anil taught Hari Singh. How did Anil's way of teaching help Hari learn better? How could this affect Hari's future? Answer in around 120 wordsAnswer: Anil taught Hari with kindness, patience, and hands-on help. This made learning fun for Hari. Instead of getting mad at mistakes, Anil helped him learn faster and better. These good experiences in learning might make Hari more open to trying new things in the future and believe in himself more. Also, seeing how Anil taught might make Hari want to teach others in the same kind and supportive way. This could keep the good cycle of teaching and learning going.5. Question: If Hari Singh wrote a letter to Anil 10 years after the story ended, what would he say? Describe the contents of the letter, focusing on Hari's life changes and gratitude. (Don't write complete letter) Answer in around 120 wordsAnswer: In his letter to Anil, Hari Singh would talk about how much his life has changed in the last ten years. He would excitedly tell Anil about the new skills he has learned. the good job he has now, and the happiness of possibly having his own family. Hari would share stories that show how Anil's advice helped him make smart choices and help others in need, just like Anil helped him a new start in life. This letter, full of thanks and respect, would show how much Anil's kindness and teaching changed Hari. It would highlight how thankful Hari is for the big difference Anil made in his life, helping Read and Find Out Page 8 Question 1. Who does 'I' refer to in this story? name. He was very excited when Anil promised to teach him to write whole sentences as well. He knew that being an educated man will add to his abilities and he could achieve anything. But when he left Anil's house, he realised that stealing was simply a crime to indulge himself but being educated was an entirely different thing. He knew that respect, reputation and possibilities that would come to him once he was educated. And so his urge to receive education compelled him to return to Anil. Question 2. Why does Anil not hand the thief over to the police? Do you think most people would have done so? In what ways is Anil different from such employers? Answer: Unlike others, Anil does not handover Hari to the police on theft charges. He knew about the theft but he did not thrash him nor even mentioned it in front of Hari. He was glad that Hari had realised his mistake and the importance of education in life. Anil wanted Hari to become a literate man and lead a respectful life. He is different from other such employers because he is very understanding. Hari's return gave him the hope of a change in him. Talk About It (Page 13) Question 1. Do you think people like Anil and Hari Singh are found only in fiction. Though exceptions might be there, these people are rarely found. Anil was a kind and considerate person who was concerned, about Hari's education and future. And Hari was a thief whose heart changes after realising the importance of education for his future. People like these are imaginary in today's world. Question 2. Do you think it is a significant detail i story that Anil is a struggling writer? this explain his behaviour in any way Answer: Yes, it is a significant detail that Anil is a struggling writer. His lifestyle was simple and used to spend according to his pocket at all time His struggle sometimes gave him a lot of income while at other times he used to worry about the next payment. Hari's observation about the discontinuation in his work justifies his behave regarding money. Question 3. Have you met anyone like Hari Singh? Can you think and imagine the circumstances to become a thief. It may be the need to feed the stomach, to satisfy illegal addiction, to maintain health, to fulfil luxurious demands etc Question 4. Where is the story set? (You can get clues from the names of the persons and places mentioned in it). Which language or languages are spoken in these places? Do you think the characters in the story spoke to each other in English?
 Answer: The story is set somewhere in Uttar Pradesh near Lucknow. We can say so because the story mentions that there is a railway station for Express train to Lucknow. The presence of sweet shops and bazaars also indicate it to be a decent-sized town. No, the characters in the story do not speak to each other in English but probably in Hindi.

 successful hand" at? He was "a fairly successful hand" at stealing and robbing people. Page No 8: What does he get from Anil in return for his work? When Hari asked Anil if he could work for him, Anil said that he could not pay him. Finally, the agreement was that if he would cook, then Anil would feed him. However, Anil soon found out that he did theft? The thief thought that on discovering the theft, Anil's face would show a touch of sadness. The sadness would not be for the loss of money, but for the loss of money and the loss of money and goods. He said that the greedy men showed anger and the poor men showed acceptance. Page No 10: Does Anil realized that he had been robbed? Yes, Anil had realized that he had been robbed? Yes, Anil had realized that he had been robbed. He knew this probably because all the notes were wet and damp from the rain. However, he did not say anything to the thief and behaved normally. Page No 13: What are Hari Singh's reactions to the prospect of receiving an education? Do they change over time? (Hint: compare, for example, the thoughts: "Whole sentences, I knew, cloud one day bring me more than a few hundred rupees. It was a simple matter to steal - and sometimes just as simple to be caught. But to be a really big man, a clever and respected man, was something else.") What makes him return to Anil? Initially, when Anil offered to educate him, he thought of it as a bright prospect for himself. He knew that once he could write such as an educated man, there would be no limit to what he could achieve in his field. For him, the motivation behind getting educated was robbing people. However, later, when he had stolen Anil's money and then missed his train in which he would have escaped, he realized that he had completely forgotten about the whole sentences that Anil had promised to teach him to write. He thought about getting educated in a different light. He thought that it was a simple matter to steal and be caught, but to be a really big, clever and respected man was something else. He was inspired by the trusting and simple nature of Anil. This motivation to earn someone's trust and be respectable made him return to Anil. Page No 13: Why does not Anil hand the thief over to the police? Do you think most people would have done so? In what ways is Anil different from such employers? Anil does not hand over the thief to the police because he realized that Hari had learnt his lesson and had changed for the better. Otherwise, he would never have come back and kept the money at the same place from where he had stolen it. Anil even knew how Hari cheated him of a rupee a day while buying the day's supplies. But he never said anything to him. This is such a case where most people would have handed him over to the police. Anil was different from such employers because he was a modest and trusting man. He had offered to teach Hari how to cook and also to educate him. When he found out that Hari had stolen the money, but had kept it back, he knew that it was Hari's conscience that had made him do so. Hari could have easily run off with the money, but he did not. This made Anil give him another chance and build him into a better person that he could already see him becoming. NCERT Solutions for Class 10 English First Flight (Prose) NCERT Solutions for Class 10 English First Flight Chapter 3 Two
