Stonemother View Source The movie starts with a book in the opening in which we can read: "Once upon a time He lived a beautiful little princess called Snow White. Its vague and evil stepmother The Queen feared that the beauty of a certain day of Snow White would exceed his. So she dressed the little princess in rags and met her to work like a waitress of Currovation. Every day the vain queen consulted his magic mirror, 'magic mirror on the wall, which is the most beautiful of the realm?' And until the mirror answered: "You're the most beautiful of all," the white snow was safe from the cruel queen jealousy. "The camera shows the queen castle. Inside the queen, consult the magical mirror of her. Queen: slave in the magic mirror come from the far away space through the wind and the darkness that me convened me. The wind screamed!
